

Permission to Talk About Specific Students & Disabilities

I would like to ask for your permission to discuss your child's disability with their peers at school. Over the years, I have had several students ask me about our kids specifically and about their disabilities. I feel that in order to encourage acceptance, understanding is key; however, I am not comfortable sharing information about our kids without your permission. I completely respect whatever your comfort level is in disclosing personal information. I will use my discretion during our discussions, but I would like to know specifically your feelings on the matter and what you are comfortable with me sharing. I have found that when peers are able to inquire openly about disabilities it tends to provide them with a better understanding and appreciation of our students and their very unique abilities.

If you are for any reason uncomfortable with this, please do not hesitate to let me know! Also, if you have any literature about your child's disability that you think their peers would appreciate, please send that in when you have a chance.

Thank you for your time!
